*I judged too quick, assumed too fast
Let every shadow from the past
Decide the story in my mind
And leave the better truth behind
But You, Lord, saw a deeper line
You called the broken parts still mine
You found the good I never knew
And held it up until it grew*

*That’s the way You see me, Lord
Not in pieces, not ignored
You see love where I see lack
You see roads that bring me back
If that’s the way You look at me
Then open up my eyes to see
Not with fear or judgment due
But through the lens of love—like You*

*I saw failure in my name
You saw fire inside the flame
I felt broken, bound to fall
You saw beauty through it all
You saw worth the world forgot
You saw hope the world once knew
You still held the image true
You believed in what You knew*

*That’s the way You see me, Lord
Not in pieces, not ignored
You see love where I see lack
You see roads that bring me back
If that’s the way You look at me
Then open up my eyes to see
Not with fear or judgment due
But through the lens of love—like You*

*Show me what You really see
When shame tries hard to shadow me
Let me hear Your voice again*

*The one that called me more than sin
Give me strength that doesn't fade
When mercy costs and grace is paid
Let me love with hands held wide
The way You loved and never lied*

*That's the way You see me, Lord
Clean and healed, not torn or scored
You see past the things I fear
You draw close and hold me near
Let me see through eyes like Yours
Past the pain and through the doors
Teach me how to see it through
The way You see me... strong and true*

*You saw me first
You saw me through
And now I see
The way..... You do*
